ABSTRACT
Injuries are often experienced by everyone due to physical activity such as sports, work and more. Therapists and rehabilitation numbers are still not comparable with the population. First aid needs to be done. Understanding of injury needs to be known to everyone. Until now still needed a guide like a handbag injury handbook. On the other hand, not many people are interested in doing business services for therapeutic and rehabilitation services. This study aims to develop a pocket book handling sports injuries. And look at the business opportunity perspective of therapeutic services and rehabilitation of sports injuries. This research is included in the research and development. Data were collected by questionnaire, and data analysis was performed with quantitative descriptive with percentage. The results showed that the development of pocket book therapy and foot joint injury rehabilitation results obtained that the product is feasible and meet the rules that apply. On the other hand from the observation and
